

Fall conferences are soon approaching and the students here at Meadowbrook have created the perfect photo opportunity for you to participate in. Inspired by street artist Kelsey Montague, each student K-5th grade created a feather that became a part of larger set of wings. The goal was to show that we are a community of people who strive to make all feel welcomed.

In other art news, first graders have been learning about symmetry as they created some colorful butterflies and fourth graders have been learning about realism in portraiture.

First Grade Butterflies

Fourth Grade Portraits

