January 2018

Happy New Year! I hope everyone enjoyed the holiday season. Students returned with excitement and fun things to share about their time off. Below are some colorful projects students worked on before the break.

Second graders learned a little about architecture and what it means to be an architect. They designed their own buildings with the help of geometric shapes. Then they decorated their building for the holidays with colorful lights.

Fifth grades learned about Aboriginal Art and how it required patience and persistence to create. They were required to combine an Australian animal with native Aboriginal symbols to help show meaning in their artwork.

Kindergarteners and First graders made bells and snowmen out of clay. They got to bring home their creations just in time for the holidays!
